Given Six Years Prison Time for Writing a Book to Solve World Problems: William Eastwood Case & Story of Injustice

Forty-five days after I founded Earth Network of Altruistic, Autonomous Individuals Inc., I was pulled from my vehicle and thrown on the asphalt based on a 911 call from a felon on parole. I cannot tell you what actually happened because I am on parole and will be returned to prison if I do not admit guilt.

This is a legal paper, however, which gives me some leeway.

Yes, this is the United States. Having no more than hearsay and circumstantial evidence, I was charged with attempted kidnapping, three counts. My complaint was that I gave a destination and made a request, either of which on their own null that charge, as do many other factors.

Connecticut's theory of intent led to a nine-year prison term. The state confiscated my papers which included the content of Earth Network of Altruistic, Autonomous Individuals Inc., which was never returned to me.

While in prison I worked on recreating that material. An elderly woman posted a website to publish my writing to help humanity, including, “The Solution to All of Humanity’s Problems & The Secret to Creating the Life You Want.”

After serving the entire nine-year effective sentence, two days after being released I was handcuffed and returned to prison for six more years. My parole officer argued that I had violated the “no internet” condition of parole.

I had been confined to a half-way house for only two days with no computer access or devices allowed, and it was impossible for me to access the internet. However, the PO claimed that I had someone do that for me (the woman posting my book and material to help humanity). He had no jurisdiction as to what I had done in prison before I had been released on parole two days prior, however.

A wealthy relative gave $50,000 to an attorney to represent me, and as a result I was released after six years on this alleged parole violation. I would have likely served 15 without that attorney.

As with Michael Cohen, the state did not want the facts about my true efforts and intents revealed, as they had painted me as being a monster. As in my original case, according to my attorney, I had again been incarcerated for my writing and beliefs rather than my actions. They wanted to give me 15 years. My efforts to help humanity were delayed for 20 years and I was tagged public enemy number one.

From New York Times (Title paraphrased):

Judge Orders Michael D. Cohen Released, Citing ‘Retaliation’ Over Tell-All Book

A judge agreed that federal officials had returned Michael D. Cohen to prison because he wanted to publish a book this fall about President Trump.

When I was released a second time, I was not allowed to have a computer or work on my books. However, because I was moved to a new location after several months, I was assigned a new parole officer. After much work convincing her of my previous work and intent to continue, she did grant me the right to have a computer and work on books as well as my four current websites.

However, I was blackmailed by the state and my attorney, and I was forced to waive my wrongful incarceration civil case in exchange to be given permission to move to a different state. (They wanted to get rid of me.) The one thing I managed to get was a court order that told the receiving state that I could not be incarcerated for my writing.

The receiving state, however, is requiring that I take polygraph exams that force compliance to philosophical beliefs that run contrary to my belief that human consciousness is inherently altruistic. If I fail to enumerate my many alleged faults that they say were evident facts twenty-years ago at the time of my arrest, and going back to the earliest events of my life, or if I in any way fail to agree to state philosophy and consequently fail the polygraph, I fail the program and am returned to prison. (They found a loophole to the law that you cannot use a polygraph to incarcerate.)

For a third time, therefore, I am facing the possibility for prison time for my writing and my ideas comprising my book, "The Solution to All of Humanity's Problems & The Secret to Creating the Life You Want," and my efforts to help guide humanity into a new era. In the book I outline a model in which the criminal justice system becomes an agency of social healing (one of many subjects covered extensively in my writing).

The US has the highest incarceration rate in the world. Read more...

NOTE: The book that the Criminal Justice System twice confiscated from me and prevented from being published in the United States for almost 20 years contains a solution to our Criminal Justice System and high incarceration rate.

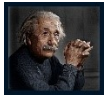

This solution is a simple Supreme Court Act that would require that all restorative justice options be exhausted prior to the incarceration of any given individual. For offering this and other solutions to global problems I was incarcerated for over a decade.

The book holds the answer to fulfilling personal dreams, and the majority of humanity's social problems.

“Great spirits have always encountered violent opposition from mediocre minds.”

Galileo Galilei

Galileo’s discoveries were met with opposition within the Catholic Church, and in 1616 the Inquisition declared his views to be formally heretical. His books were banned, and he was forbidden from holding, teaching or defending heliocentric ideas. In his 1633 interrogation, Galileo denied his beliefs to save himself. Galileo was kept under house arrest until his death in 1642. After 350 years the Vatican says Galileo was right.

Present Day

A similar trial 367 years later

My books were confiscated in an embarrassing attack by the government.

I know how Galileo felt in court. My own views have been treated as modern-day heresy, my manuscripts and all my work to help humanity was twice confiscated and hence held back from reaching you for almost twenty years.

After the first manuscript was confiscated, I rewrote “The Solution to All of Humanity’s Problems & The Secret to Creating the Life You Want,” only to have that second manuscript confiscated. The third rewrite was not confiscated, but instead published.

Yet this did not happen in 1633 Italy or in the Roman Inquisition, this happened in the U.S. in the 21st Century.

Decades ago, 45 days after I founded Earth Network of Altruistic, Autonomous Individuals Inc., I was attacked. An event in New Haven in which there was a misunderstanding of my kind invitation to a stranger, and he called the police. Rather than getting to the bottom of this misunderstanding the police pulled me out of my vehicle and threw me on the asphalt.

That incident led to a series of embarrassing events which resulted in a case the government based on the writing they confiscated from my office and the hearsay of the stranger I mentioned.

My confiscated research was read to a jury in angry tones for over an hour. When I insisted on proving my innocence in a trial, the state proceeded to reject a request for a professional corporate statistical analyst as a juror who would have set the facts straight. Apparently, my writing was modern day heresy, because that was what was focused on rather than the facts of the case.

I was confronting what I had set out to change in the 1990s, “The dragon,” as I called it in the yet to be published book “it” confiscated (which never reached publication).

The event I described was only a fraction of an embarrassing and tumultuous series of events which were a manifestation of the limiting and fearful beliefs of specific arresting and prosecutorial agents (beliefs that I did not and do not hold).

Serendipity

My philosophy has been tested and proven effective under the worst possible circumstances. Because you cannot change the beliefs of other people, it was quite an effort to finally get my books published. Despite the state’s efforts to brand me as a monster and restrict my every action, I am now a successful international author.

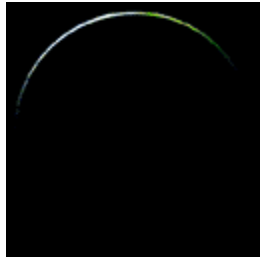

The beliefs of all participating in any given social event determine the shape and nature of that event. Anyone can create a personal paradise in isolation, but in order to change the world we need to influence that world and that requires interaction. Once I entered into a public event, I could not force the outcome.

In this particular situation I had to reach out in the hopes that good people would stand up for my basic rights and good intents. Fortunately many have, allowing the sites and books I am now presenting to you to finally make their way to the public as I originally intended 45 days prior to my arrest when I founded Earth Network of Altruistic, Autonomous Individuals, Inc.

I was labeled Public Enemy Number One and violently kidnapped and raped on multiple levels for over 20 years even though forty-five days prior to my arrest I founded Earth Network of Altruistic, Autonomous Individuals, Inc.

Government-sponsored agents have indicated to me that I cannot call myself a victim. I am not allowed to.

“EVERYTHING WE ARE EXPECTED TO BELIEVE & WERE TAUGHT IN SCHOOL IS WRONG! It is all absurd!

We do not generally think of official mainstream belief systems in the U.S. and our global civilization as being cult-like, yet they are to the extent that they take power away from the individual, creating dependence and weakness. Even worse, established institutions attempt to control you because of their fundamental low evaluation of human nature.

Maslow's study of high achievers finds they possess unique qualities.

From Huffpost.com:

Self-actualized people resist enculturation

They do not allow themselves to be passively molded by culture — they are deliberate and make their own decisions, selecting what they see as good, and rejecting what they see as bad. They neither accept all, like a sheep, nor reject all, like the average rebel. Self-actualized people:

“make up their own minds, come to their own decisions, are self-starters, are responsible for themselves and their own destinies. [...] too many people do not make up their own minds, but have their minds made up for them by salesmen, advertisers, parents, propagandists, TV, newspapers and so on.”

Because of their self-decision, self-actualized people have codes of ethics that are individualized and autonomous rather than being dictated by society. “They are the most ethical of people even though their ethics are not necessarily the same as those of the people around them [...because] the ordinary ethical behavior of the average person is largely conventional behavior rather than truly ethical behavior.”

An ordinary past

As a child I was brought up as an ordinary middle-class citizen. My father drove trains on the railroad from Grand Central Station in New York to all over New England, and my brothers became building contractors. When I set out on my own, I was only afforded the money necessary for survival and was never given any advantages. I had no connections with Yale University or any educational institutions or educated people. My early life achievements did not seem to fit hereditary or environment. They didn't fit the pattern I was born into but spoke of the metaphysical influence that I attracted on my own.

I am inner directed and self-educated. I hope this example illustrates the effectiveness of the philosophy on this site.

My early life accomplishments applying this philosophy

At age 13, I designed solar inventions with Yale University Professor, Everett Barber.

At age 15, I designed solar homes which were built in the beautiful shoreline town of Madison Connecticut.

At age 37, I Founded Earth Network of Altruistic, Autonomous Individuals, Inc. to solve global problems – 50% of its revenue went to Feed the Children.

I have published an educational course on metaphysics to help people create what they want in life. I have published on social issues, institution reform, climate change, ocean level rise, quantum biology, philosophy, and US Supreme Court and Non-profit legislative proposals (“The Solution...”). I am currently in the process of publishing a new extensive course divided up into many manageable small, practical segments, (the keys).

The books and websites I have created despite the government bringing its full powers to bear to try to stop me is evidence that the philosophy works. There is nothing more powerful than your own thoughts and emotions. What you desire will manifest no matter how powerful your opposition is, what lies people make up about you and how hard they work to stop you.

A philosophy of personal power

Thoughts are fields of energy that form matter. We have built a civilization on the division between mind and matter, yet both are the same — consciousness and matter are both composed of electromagnetic fields.

Thoughts combine with similar thoughts and transform themselves into probable events which contain the impetus and pattern necessary to evolve into the complexity of matter.

- You project your own psychological energy out to form the physical world.
- Ideas and emotions are energy that coalesce as events and objects.
- Your life is a learning experience you chose in order to learn how to project energy.
- Your life situation gives you clarity as to what you are projecting psychologically.
- You are in your own hologram.
